Welcome to

MIRVISH VILLAGE

The site of Mirvish Village was previously the home to the Honest Ed's Department Store for over 50 years- a place where the community came together to help Toronto become the multicultural global city it is today.

A new 100% purpose-built rental community, Mirvish Village is built on the rich history that began with Ed, Anne and David Mirvish in 1948. Our goal is not only to honour this legacy, but to build on the idea that Mirvish Village will represent this community and support its evolution.

The result is a new, vibrant community hub and gathering place, integrating a park, The Kitchen Food Hall and Music Venue, an extensive public realm, incubator retail space, restored heritage buildings, unique restaurants and shops, and indoor and outdoor performance spaces all interwoven with public art installations by artists Ian Wallace and Frank Stella.

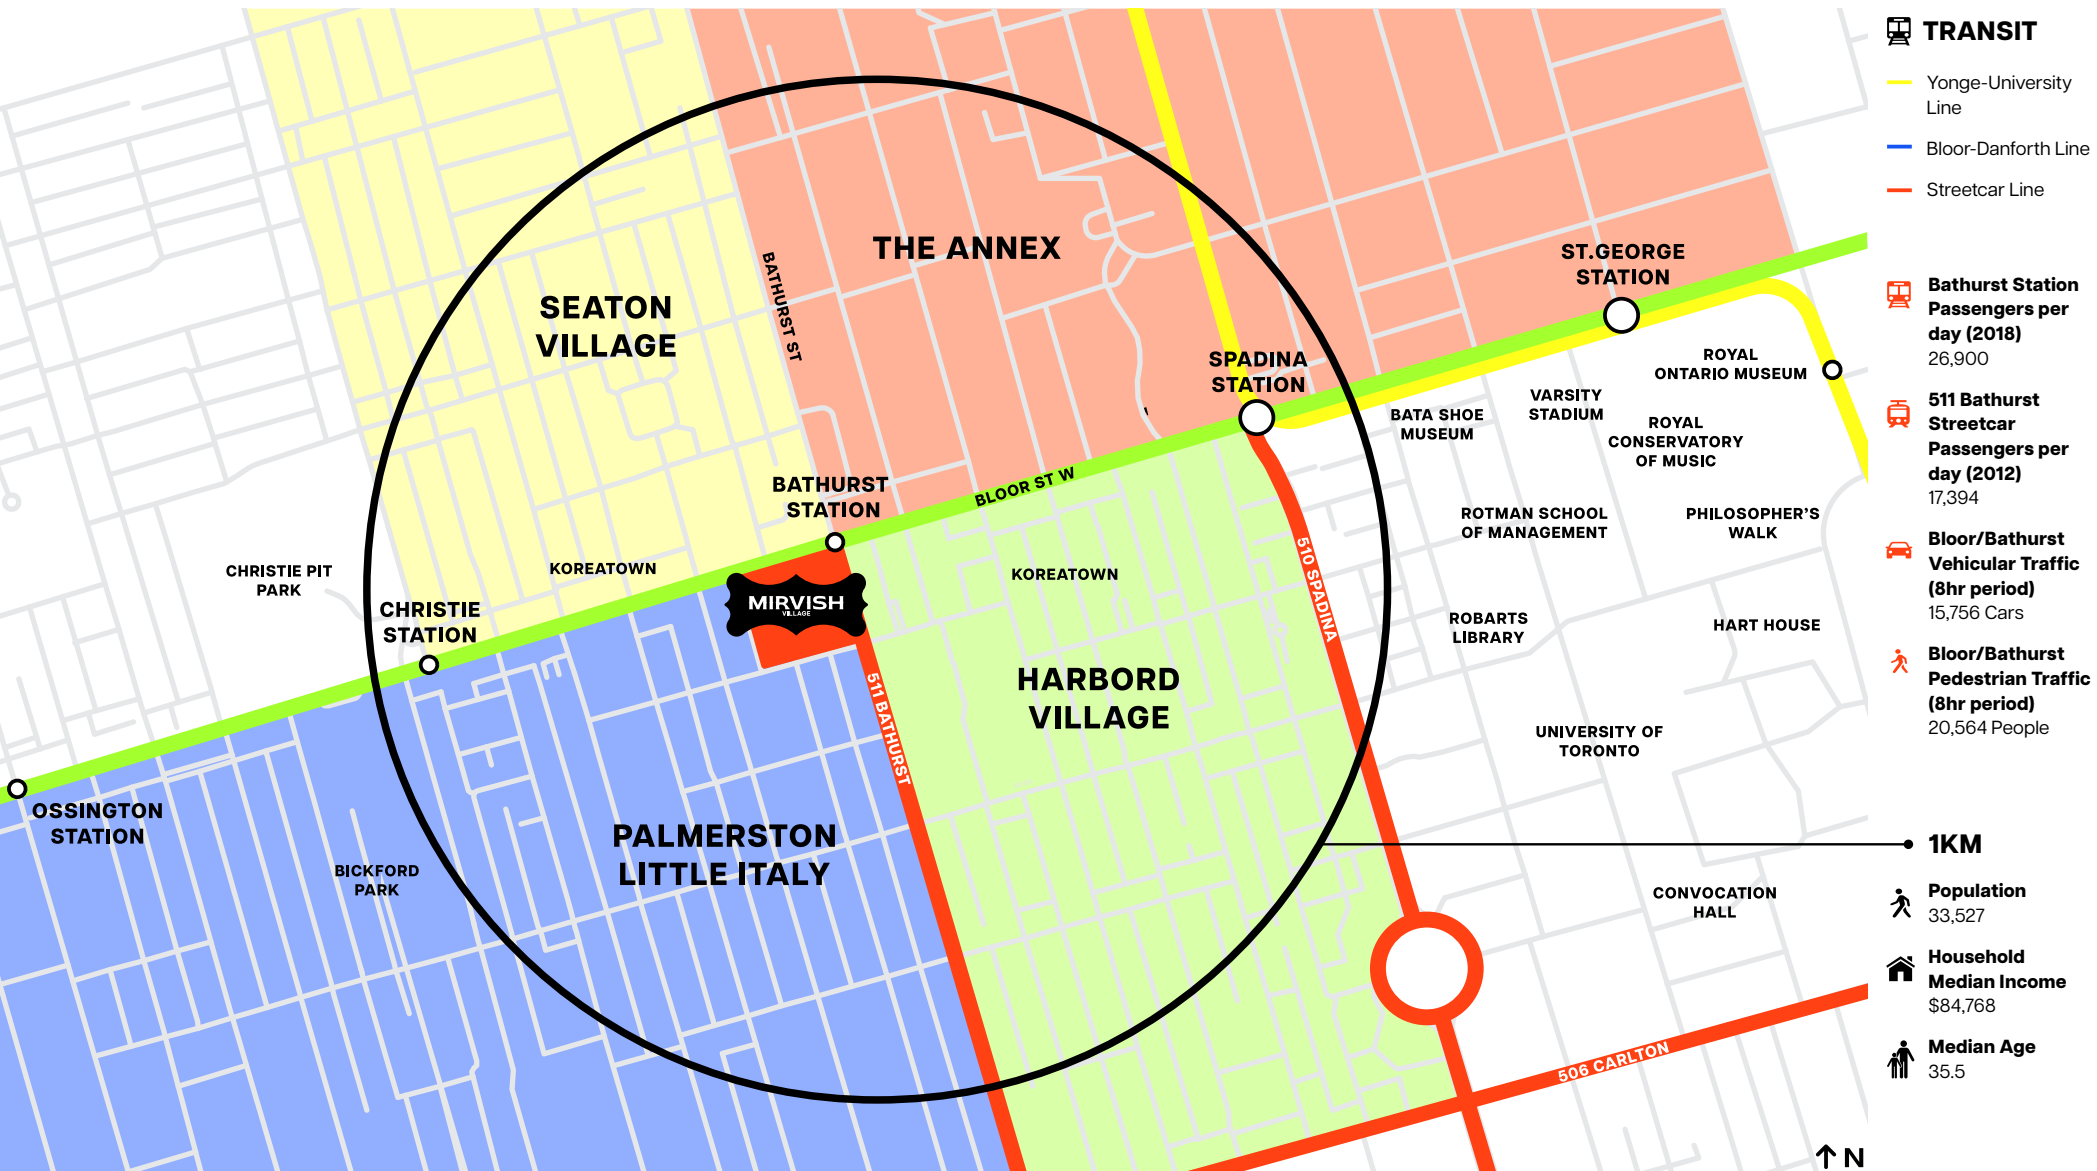

We invite you to join us to help bring Mirvish Village to life.

Demographics & NEIGHBOURHOOD MAP

The site is bordered by four residential neighbourhoods: Palmerston-Little Italy, Seaton Village, The Annex and Harbord Village each with their own unique identity. The University of Toronto is located less than a 10 minute walk from Mirvish Village, adding over 60,000 people to the daytime population.

MARKHAM STREET HERITAGE HOUSES

The restoration of the Markham Street heritage houses reimagines the street as a pedestrian-oriented avenue. The 10 restored heritage houses (of a total 24 restored heritage structures) will be home to unique restaurants, cafes, bookstores, record stores and other retailers that reflect the distinct character of the neighbourhood.

We are returning Markham Street to the vibrancy of its heyday in the 1960s, when rows of twentieth century residences housing galleries and studios lined the street, and artists sold their pieces on their front lawns.

AT MIRVISH VILLAGE

When we acquired this property from the Mirvish family, we made a promise we would try to recreate some of the values that Honest Ed's represented. In our mind, one of Honest Ed's primary achievements was that it brought all of Toronto, especially new immigrants together, and became a mixing chamber for the city. To this day, Toronto has continued to be one of the most multicultural cities in the world — we felt that celebrating this multiculturalism and its fundamental role in Canada was our opportunity to honor the Honest Ed's legacy. The medium we've chosen to achieve this is a combination of food and music — two cultural attributes which are truly universal.

The Kitchen will be a big mixing bowl, of food from around the world and music.

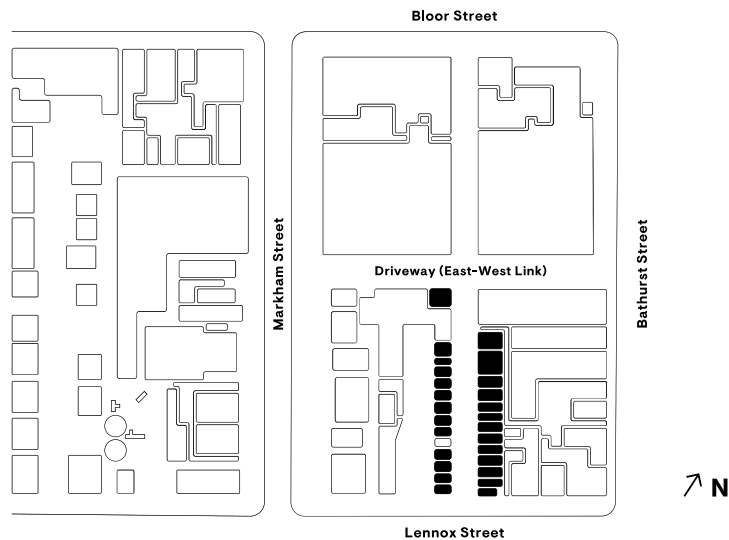

When you bring that together with everything else Mirvish Village offers, from the 24 heritage buildings restored for 10 new boutique shops and restaurants, to nearly 900 units of rental housing, to the micro retail in Honest Ed's Alley to the Frank Stella mural, to the music venue to the district energy system to the university, to the grocery store... it really is a village. At the heart of that village is The Kitchen.

MICRO RETAIL AT HONEST ED'S ALLEY

“A Celebration of Entrepreneurial Spirit.”

Mirvish Village will build on the entrepreneurial spirit of Ed and Anne Mirvish and celebrate all that they created by supporting creative, innovative and passionate entrepreneurs and small business owners. Mirvish Village will offer incubator spaces and micro-retail spaces for these businesses to showcase their products and test out new concepts. 25 fully move-in ready for retail entrepreneurs. With no major deposit or long-term leases required. Honest Ed's Alley will support a new generation of young entrepreneurs from across Toronto. Honest Ed's Alley features neon signage and lighting inspired by alleyways of Tokyo. Lined with street vendors and unique retailers these alleyways are lit with beautiful lanterns and signs that draw in visitors to activate the space day and night.
