Agency Disclosure

John Morris and Charles Morris have been appointed by Coldwell as the Vendor's Designated Agents (the "Designated Agent"). The conduct of the Vendor's Designated Agent is closely regulated by the Real Estate Council of British Columbia. Under British Columbia's Real Estate Services Act, agency and disclosure rules effective June 15, 2018 require licensees to inform customers of the duties and responsibilities owed to both clients and unrepresented parties before working with customers. In addition, the Real Estate Act prohibits dual agency. Licensees must make a Disclosure of Representation in Trading Services prior to providing any form of trading services to the customer; including:

- Making representations about the Property;
- Showing the Property;
- Negotiating the terms of a potential sale of the Property;
- Presenting offers for the Property; and
- Receiving deposits for the Property.

The attached Disclosure of Risks to an Unrepresented Party explains what a licensee acting for another party can and cannot do for an unrepresented party.

The attached Disclosure of Representation in Trading Services stipulates that the Designated Agents are acting for the Vendor and, as an interested purchaser, _____ (purchaser name) chooses to be an unrepresented party.

Please sign both of these documents in conjunction with this agreement to confirm that the Designated Agents have properly explained their duties and responsibilities as well as the risks to an unrepresented party.

Your Relationship with a Real Estate Professional

Real estate professionals have a regulatory requirement to present you with this consumer information before providing services to you.

BC Financial Services Authority is the legislated regulatory agency that works to ensure real estate professionals have the skills and knowledge to provide you with a high standard of service. All real estate professionals must follow rules that help protect consumers, like you. We're here to help you understand your rights as a real estate consumer.

Keep this information page for your reference.

This information explains the different relationships you can have with a real estate professional to buy, sell or lease property. Before you disclose confidential information to a real estate professional regarding a real estate transaction, you should understand what type of business relationship you have with that individual.

You can work with a real estate professional in one of the following ways:

AS A CLIENT

If you are the client of a real estate professional, they work on your behalf. The real estate professional representing you has special legal duties to you, including:

- Loyalty. They will act only in your best interests.
- Full disclosure. They must tell you everything they know that might influence your decision in a transaction.
- Avoid conflicts of interest. They must avoid any situation that would affect their duty to act in your best interests.
- Confidentiality. They must not reveal your private information without your permission, even after your relationship ends. That includes:
  - your reasons for buying, selling or leasing
  - your minimum/maximum price
  - any preferred terms and conditions you may want to include in a contract

When you become a client, you may be asked to sign a written agreement setting out your and the real estate professional's responsibilities.

AS A NON-CLIENT

A real estate professional who is not representing you as a client does not owe you special legal duties:

- No loyalty. They may be representing a client with competing interests to yours in a transaction. They must be loyal to their client, not you.
- No duty of full disclosure. They do not have a duty to give you all relevant information.
- No duty to avoid conflicts. They are not acting in your interests.
- No confidentiality. They must share any information you tell them with their clients in a transaction.

As a non-client, a real estate professional may give you only limited services.

Whenever a real estate professional works with you in a real estate transaction, whether you are their client or not, they have a responsibility to act honestly and with reasonable care and skill.
