Windsor location overview

The Windsor-Essex economic region is home to nearly 400,000 residents. By virtue of its location at the US boarder, and only hours from Toronto, Windsor is an ideal choice for employers looking for a deep, skilled labour pool, nested between Toronto and the US market.

Windsor boasts a thriving economy that presents numerous opportunities for businesses. The city is known for its strong manufacturing sector, particularly in the automotive industry. With its close proximity to the United States and access to major trade routes, Windsor serves as a gateway for international trade. In recent years, the city has also seen growth in sectors such as healthcare, education, tourism, and technology, contributing to a diverse and resilient economy. Windsor, Ontario is the 14th largest region in Canada and the 3rd largest in Southwest Ontario. Windsor is home to the University of Windsor and St. Clair College which have over 20,000 students between them.

The ambassador bridge is the most active commercial boarder crossings in North America and the city is currently developing the Gordie Howe bridge to reinforce the trade activity as well. Windsor is also in the midst of developing their Mega Hospital, investing 1.5 billion into the project with a projected completion date of 2030.

Windsor is also home to the future Stellantis EV Battery Plant projected to cost $5 billion dollars and create 2,500 new jobs. The project has spurred a flurry of investment to the region for complimentary services and manufactures alike. The Windsor region saw a total of nearly $700 million in building permits in February and March of 2023, making it the strongest per capita in the country directly competing with some of Canada's largest cities.
